Message From the President

I can't believe that we are already half way through summer. And I am sure like most of you I will be trying to get the most out of August before the summer ends. The year is also moving fast for me as President of AIANS. We have conducted many events including most recently our annual charity golf outing at the Forest Hills Country Club in Bloomfield, NJ. It was a great event and I would like to thank all the members, sponsors, CSI members and guests who attended. If you were not able to make it please consider signing up next year as we will be joining forces with the Architect's League.

That's all for this month. Enjoy the summer and I look forward to seeing you all at our Design Awards and Tri- States Conference events in September. Please see our website for additional information.

canstruction[®]

As architects, we have an inherent ability to create, to visualize, to analyze, and then to implement the results of our analysis. We all love it! It's this passion that got us this far.

During the course of our careers, however, we can sometimes find ourselves in more mundane tasks - reviewing that door hardware submittal, drafting a stair plan (again, for the 5th time), or making sure our specification sections are accurately reflected in the table of contents.

I see Canstruction as an opportunity to shake things up a bit. We have the opportunity to tap into the

Message from the Design Awards Chairman

As we find ourselves at the mid-point of what has so far been one hot summer, I am sure that our Section members, when not thinking about work, are busy thinking about summertime activities such as weekends at the beach, family vacations and the upcoming 2011 AIANS Design Awards on September 16 at NJIT's Weston Hall. All right, perhaps that's just wishful thinking on my part regarding the Design Awards. But I would like to remind everyone that our event is only a month and a half away and that it's never too soon to begin planning your presentation board. Perhaps it can be a few thumbnail sketches for that special project as you sit poolside or in your beach chair.

Whether yours is a firm that has entered previously or you are planning to enter for the first time, please visit the AIANS web site for important information on board presentations, which incorporate helpful comments from our 2010 jurors and feedback from other AIA Chapters. And if you are looking for some good examples of presentation boards, then please visit the gallery of awarded projects from last year's event that are also on the AIANS web site. The boards of the awarded projects all display clear and effective layouts with strong graphics and excellent photography. If you are seeking a professional photographer for your work, please check the website shortly as we are compiling a list.

So please help us to build on the success of last year's event and make plans to be a part of the 2011 AIANS Design Awards. We have a great evening lined up that includes another compelling group of guest jurors, live music, and plenty of food and wine. We look forward to seeing more great work from all of our veteran entrants and we would love to see work from more of our member firms.

creative side of ourselves to find the drive to do something great, something bigger than the project that we're working on, something that helps the greater good.

Yes, there's a fantastic opportunity to show our own abilities off, but entering this competition offers much more.

It offers sincere appreciation for all of our entrant's efforts. The canned goods from our sculptures go to the Community Food Bank of NJ; there is such a great sense of pride, a sense that the "project" that you were just working on will directly help so much, with a "client" that is forever greatful for your willingness to help others, a sense that you've given someone else the elemental gift of a meal on the table. There is no way to describe how fulfilling it is to help those individuals less fortunate than us; perhaps we can contribute to the world by helping to do the right thing and reaching out to those in need. I know I am blessed with my ability to give.

Help us out with Canstruction this year. Click here to enter the competition. Click here to support via sponsorship.

And thank you from the hearts of those in need.
